VINCI wins the construction of river infrastructure in France

- Two new lock gates to be built to secure river traffic on the Rhône
- Synergies between VINCI Construction and VINCI Energies
- €68 million contract

The Compagnie nationale du Rhône has awarded the contract to add a second set of downstream gates at the Bollène and Châteauneuf-du-Rhône locks (both in south-east France) to a consortium¹ led by VINCI Construction and including VINCI Energies.

The €68 million project will begin in March 2026 and is scheduled to last for five years. VINCI's share of the work is valued at €45 million. The improvements will bolster the safety and availability of the infrastructure, thereby supporting the development of low-carbon river transport on the Rhône.

The works will require the combined expertise of local teams specialised in civil, hydraulic, mechanical and electrical engineering. The work conditions will be complex, as the existing lock systems and adjacent roads will maintain operations throughout the project.

This new project confirms VINCI Construction's recognised expertise in river works and development, as well as VINCI Energies' ability to implement secure and efficient electrical and control systems.

¹ Consortium including subsidiaries of VINCI Construction (Campenon Bernard Centre-Est (lead), GTM Sud and Océlian), a company operating under Actemium (VINCI Energies brand dedicated to industry), and Baudin Chateauneuf.
